

Beacon TranscriptUVM study shows decline in beesBarre Montpelier Times ArgusBURLINGTON — A new study led by researchers from the University of Vermont has found the nationwide population of wild bees — which are crucial to crop production — have declined 23 percent during the last seven years. The study — the first to map ...Decreasing wild bee populations threatening crops in USThe IndependentDeclining honey bee populations threatening cropsPerfScienceDwindling populations of honeybee threatening crops in U.S.University HeraldDesign & Trend -NH Voice -Press Telegraph (blog)los 26 artículos informativos »

Leer más: UVM: Google Noticias